春の渡り時期のクロツグミ

A black and white speckled bird, likely a Japanese Thrush, is perched in a lush green field. The bird has a dark head and back with white spots on its chest and belly. It has a bright orange beak and a small white ring around its eye. The field is filled with tall green grass and several yellow dandelions in various stages of bloom. The background is softly blurred, emphasizing the bird and the foreground vegetation.
